

How the creation and destruction of early universe instantons leads to chaotic generation of entropy

Dr. Andrew Walcott Beckwith Fermi laboratory
abeckwith@uh.edu

We formulate from first principles how a worm hole from our prior universe to today's universe with an initial instanton packet of matter-energy leads to spontaneous generation of high levels of entropy and information at the onset of inflation.